Ohio Senate Meet Is Spectacle of Shouted Confusion

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Democratic-dominated Ohio Senate Wednesday night put on a shouting spectacle of confusion which few people saw—because the Senate chamber was plunged into darkness when the light switch was thrown off.

Milling—sometimes cursing—Republicans screamed futilely to high heaven as they stumbled through the darkness in the unbelievable climax to a day-long battle.

The Senate, scheduled to meet at 1:30 p.m., est., finally met almost eight hours late—at 9:25 p.m. Within three minutes, the Senate was adjourned in Stygian darkness and complete confusion.

None of the legislative veterans could remember a similar set of circumstances which included attempts by the Senate sergeant-at-arms to eject senators and at least four newsmen from the darkened chamber.

The "clear-the-House" order came from Senate Clerk Joseph W. Bartunek of Cleveland.

The whole bitter hassle was over Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's bill to impose a tax increase of 96 million dollars in the next two years on Ohio corporations. Democrats were convinced up until 90 minutes before the scheduled start of the Senate session they had locked up the needed 17 votes to pass the tax measure.

But, according to DiSalle, Sen. Julius J. Petrasch (D-Cuyahoga) backed down on a promise to vote for the corporation franchise tax bill. Petrasch hotly denied he had broken his word: "I only promised to vote for it if (Senate Majority Leader Frank W.) King had the 17 votes needed to pass it."

Scattered Showers Predicted For Memorial Day Weekend

Circleville and surrounding communities already are gearing for the long Memorial Day weekend which unofficially will start Friday evening and last until midnight Sunday.

Parades and special observances honoring the nation's war dead will be held here and in other areas throughout the county. An early weather forecast indicates scattered showers for the weekend, meaning that some programs may be curtailed by rain.

Activities in Circleville will be highlighted by a parade through the city, starting at the Memorial Hall here at 9 a.m. The many units will march to Forest Cemetery where a special program will be conducted at Soldiers' Glen.

The special day will be observed here by the closing of most stores and other business establishments. All banks, the local postoffice, the courthouse, city hall and library are slated to close their doors.

SEVERAL restaurants also are scheduled to close for the day.

About the only offices remaining open for regular business will be the local police, fire and sheriff departments and the State Highway Patrol. All these agencies will maintain regular and reinforced

Rain Deluge Hits Whistler

Unconfirmed reports today stated that the village of Whistler, in the southeastern part of Pickaway County, received nearly four inches of rain this morning.

Sources said that all roads leading into Whistler were closed. Neither the County Engineer's office or the State Highway Garage had been notified of the traffic halt in the area.

The general county area received .04 inches of rain yesterday to bring the monthly rainfall to 3.22 inches, just .01 inches behind the average.

Rain has fallen six of the past eight days in the county, totaling 1.57 inches of precipitation. Several areas in the county have experienced heavy amounts of rainfall during the past week.

No Excuses To Be Given Ear by Patrol

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"Patrolmen will not be prone to accept any excuses" from highway traffic violators this weekend, an Ohio Highway Patrol official announced.

"We're out to save lives," said Capt. D. W. Unkle, chief of enforcement for the patrol. His organization and all local law enforcement agencies plan an all-out effort to keep the state's Memorial Day weekend traffic toll from reaching the 22 predicted by the Department of Highway Safety.

If you must travel the highways during the holiday weekend, Unkle advised Wednesday, plan your trip so you won't have to hurry. And stay alert at all times behind the wheel, he adds.

Meanwhile, traffic deaths on the nation's highways jumped in April for the fourth straight month.

Pentagon Feud Hit by Solons

Nearly $400 Million Cut From Ike Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a blast at Pentagon rivalries, "confusion and duplication," the House Appropriations Committee today recommended $38,848,339,000 in new funds for the Defense Department.

In cutting $399,861,000 from the amount requested by President Eisenhower for the year starting July 1, the committee told the Army and the Air Force to cease bickering over who has the best missiles, called for a general tightening up on defense operations, and spoke of a growing Soviet military threat.

On the face of its action, it sided with the Army in its missile war with the Air Force by boosting Army funds and cutting Air Force money for missiles.

It approved funds to strengthen the Strategic Air Command, to shore up the Navy's antisubmarine warfare program, and to expedite work on atomic airplanes.

It disapproved the President's plans to reduce the strength of the National Guard and the reserve forces, but went along with his figures for active military manpower.

It refused the Navy's request for 260 million dollars to build a new aircraft carrier.

It voted to authorize the President to keep bombers in the air around the clock if necessary to prevent their destruction on ground by a sneak attack.

These and other actions were included in a bill the committee sent to the House floor for debate next week.

"The nation must always be prepared for the worst," the committee said in a report written by Rep. George Mahon (D-Tex.).

"The threat is expected to worsen. As long as we are well prepared for general nuclear war, such a war is must less likely. The nation is prepared today to meet the military threat it faces."

Testimony taken during months of hearings behind closed doors, the committee said, "clearly indicates that there is something wrong in our present military planning, there is so much confusion and duplication" and too much bickering over "who gets what."

Dulles Is Buried in Rites Seldom Matched in History

WASHINGTON (AP) — The body of John Foster Dulles was laid in its final resting place Wednesday in a massive official ceremony seldom matched in the history of this country.

Hundreds of U.S. officials and many from abroad watched as Dulles' casket was committed to a simple grave on a hillock in Arlington National Cemetery.

A 2½-hour ritual was climaxed by a 19-gun salute, three rifle volleys, and the sounding of taps by a lone bugler. Dry-eyed and composed, Mrs. Dulles received the flag which had covered the casket during the funeral.

Then President and Mrs. Eisenhower once again expressed condolences to Mrs. Dulles, whose husband died of cancer Sunday after six years as secretary of state.

Today the galaxy of foreign leaders—including some who fought Dulles during his long diplomatic career—prepared to go their separate ways.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Britain's Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, scheduled a meeting with Eisenhower before returning to their Geneva conference temporarily recessed for the funeral.

Winger of the music award was Stephen Foster, 17.

And Just Who Else Could Be Considered?

WASHINGTON COURTHOUSE, Ohio (AP) — There wasn't even a murmur of surprise as Principal Gilbert Biddle announced a special citation during high school commencement exercises at near Dulles' funeral services.

A newsman asked Hagerty whether the statement meant Eisenhower regards a summit meeting as neither desirable nor useful.

"I don't think that's what the English says," Hagerty replied.

In reply to another question, Hagerty said he did not know whether Gromyko had brought any message from Khrushchev to Eisenhower.

Eisenhower is understood to have talked calmly with no effort to pound the table or to get tough with Gromyko. He is reported to have stressed to the Soviet foreign policy chief that the world is watching developments at Geneva, hoping for an easing of international tensions.

Hagerty added informally that at the outset of the meeting the President took the occasion to thank the foreign ministers for the respect they showed the memory of former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in coming here for Dulles' funeral services.

In reply to another question, Hagerty said he did not know whether Gromyko had brought any message from Khrushchev to Eisenhower.

At the end of the half hour session, Gromyko, Lloyd and Couve de Murville walked together to the White House west wing lobby.

All three were smiling and the British and French foreign ministers told newsmen that Gromyko would make a statement on behalf of all.

Speaking in scarcely accented English, the Soviet official said: "We had a very pleasant and useful conversation with the President."

As Gromyko hesitated, Lloyd chimed in to remark: "That's all. It's a tripartite decision."

Ike Advises Gromyko To Aid Progress

No Summit Conference To Be Held Unless Ministers Show Gain

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko "a measure of progress" must be made at the present Geneva East-West talks if Russia wants a summit meeting.

Eisenhower so expressed himself during a 30-minute White House meeting with Gromyko and the American, British and French foreign ministers.

Gromyko, without commenting on Eisenhower's call for progress, described the session as "a very pleasant and useful conversation."

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, described Gromyko's comment as "a tripartite declaration, thus saying in light humor that this was also their comment."

In a formal statement read to newsmen by his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower expressed hope that the Geneva meeting "would lead to a better approach to the solution of the problems that confront us in Europe."

Hagerty said Eisenhower stressed the need for peaceful solutions to the problems of Germany's future and other issues now being debated. He added:

"The President likewise expressed the hope that on their return to Geneva the foreign ministers would be able to achieve that measure of progress which would make a subsequent meeting of heads of government desirable and useful."

Although he talked to all four foreign ministers, Eisenhower clearly was beaming his remarks at Gromyko. He was in effect re-affirming his determination to reject a meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev unless the Soviets demonstrate good faith at Geneva by offering reasonable concessions to match the West's proposals.

Eisenhower is understood to have talked calmly with no effort to pound the table or to get tough with Gromyko. He is reported to have stressed to the Soviet foreign policy chief that the world is watching developments at Geneva, hoping for an easing of international tensions.

Hagerty added informally that at the outset of the meeting the President took the occasion to thank the foreign ministers for the respect they showed the memory of former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in coming here for Dulles' funeral services.

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Consumption of new rubber last month declined to 118,020 long tons as a result of strikes against three members of the "Big Four" in the rubber industry.

This was reported Wednesday by the Rubber Manufacturers Assn., which said the April figure compared with consumption of 147,080 long tons in March.

Strikes against the B. F. Goodrich Co. and the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., which started April 16, have not been settled. The United Rubber Workers Union struck the U.S. Rubber Co. April 10, but the walkout ended May 21.

Industry Has Responsibilities

Businessmen who worry out loud about the "dying downtown" might listen to the testimony of a Newark, N. J., insurance executive.

He is Paul Stillman, chairman of the board of Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., whose firm a few years ago decided to move out of the decadent, overcrowded downtown area of Newark — and then not only changed its mind and stayed but started to build a new home office building.

Asked recently why his firm decided to stick it out, Stillman replied, "Partly out of conscience. We had to face the fact that the conditions in Newark that made us want to get outside the city were the responsibility of large business enterprises like ours as much as they were the city's. 'But mostly because we have been identified with Newark for more than a hundred years. We felt it would be a damage-ing reflection on us if we admitted by moving that we had had so little impact on the course of Newark's development that Newark was no longer a profitable and efficient location for our operations or a pleasant and satisfactory home town for our employees," Stillman explained.

Such blunt frankness is refreshing. More firms should take a similar conscientious view of their responsibilities for making theirs a worthwhile community now and in the future.

Salute to Night High Schoolers

By RELMAN MORIN
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — The white card, embossed with a gold coat-of-arms, announced the date of graduation exercises for a high school in Virginia.

Inside, a smaller card bore the name, James D. Ream Jr.

Well, June is at hand. June is the month when, all over America, the high school band plays "Pomp and Circumstance," or some other march, and the seniors step up for diplomas.

These cards, however, the big one and the smaller one, represent something unusual, something special.

On a chilly night last December, I crossed the bridge into South Norfolk, Va., and found the Oscar F. Smith High School. Lights burned in the classrooms, the study halls, the auditorium, the grounds outside were quiet and the halls deserted.

It was a little after 8 p.m.

Isn't that the hour when teenagers are supposed to be munching popcorn in the movies, or hot-rodding around town looking for a traffic accident to get hurt in?

There was an air of purpose about this school.

It was a night high school. The pupils all came from nearby Norfolk, where the regular schools had been closed in the dispute

Beating a Dead Horse

For some unaccountable reason, there is a renewed if sudden spurt of attack on Sen. Joe McCarthy. For better or for worse, Joe McCarthy is dead; and it is now fashionable for everybody to be more or less anti-Communist.

McCarthy has become a peg on which to hang a sermon, which does no harm except that it beclouds the issue, which is, as every intelligence and police officer in the country knows, that the Communists are increasing their activities and that one of their principal activities is espionage.

Nathan Straus, in an editorial broadcast over Station WMCA in New York, says of the American people:

"A sizable majority of Americans have always been swayed by the voice of a demagogue. This demagogue plays on the theme of a fancied or alleged danger to the country to frighten us into giving up fundamental American principles of liberty and the dignity of the individual. That is the threat of dictatorship, ever present in a demagogue."

This, of course, is a new reading of American history. It is difficult to think of Jefferson or Lincoln, of Clay, Calhoun and Daniel Webster, of Theodore Roosevelt or Robert A. Taft, to pick a few influential Americans, as demagogues. Nor has there ever been a visible or ostensible threat of dictatorship in the United States, although in time of war, the President is given powers tantamount to a dictator's for a short period.

No man has ever been able to perpetuate himself in office beyond the traditional eight years except Franklin D. Roosevelt who was chosen for four terms, dying during the fourth.

Straus does not believe that there is any danger of "dictatorship from the Left" because no Communist has ever been elected to Congress, a statement often made but equally often doubted by those who sometimes wonder at the tactics and antics of some members of that body.

Straus believes:

"But Americans have always shown a dangerous tolerance of the extremes of the Right. Our history that Fascist ideas, the

LAFF-A-DAY

"Psst! May I see your ticket stub?"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A BUSINESS MAN who liked to spend many evenings and weekends with male companions suddenly realized he hadn't been giving his wife a fair shake, so he impulsively bought her a dozen American Beauty roses and a 5-pound box of candy. When he presented them to her, she burst into tears. "This is the last straw," she sobbed. "First the cook quit, then Johnny broke his arm, and now you come home drunk!"

Adelia Watson shook her head.

"My parents don't let me do any dating on school nights anyway," she said. Jim Ream said he had been too busy, what with one thing and another.

When Jim Ream's card came the other day, announcing graduation day, I thought of him and Adelia Watson and hundreds of bright-looking, intent boys and girls in the classrooms that night.

So here's a salute to you, Jim Ream, and to you, Adelia Watson, and all your friends in the class of 1959. You're getting a special diploma in a few weeks.

And all of you are mighty special too, in my book.

By George Sokolsky

with the "Know-Nothing" movement, nor did McCarthy develop a movement of any kind.

When Nathan Straus ceases to beat a dead horse, Joe McCarthy, he turns to the subject of racial discrimination. He would wipe out by law, all forms of human antagonism, discrimination of all kinds, rejection of the different and all the human problems arising from what the Bible represented in the Tower of Babel.

Nathan Straus also says:

"Our nation cannot assume the role of leadership in the world until it has a real leader at home — President who realizes that national survival depends upon our ability to achieve that equality between black and white."

This is not true at all. American political leadership, which is what this man is talking about, depends upon our fire power, our capacity to outproduce Soviet Russia in the new weapons of war, our economic foresight, the soundness of our currency, our ability to avert inflation.

He also equates McCarthyism with the "Know-Nothing" movement of the 1850's, a most unfortunate comparison. The "Know-Nothing" movement was what might be called a WASP attack on immigrants, particularly the Irish. WASP means white, Anglo-Saxon, Protestants. These old-timers feared that the Irish Catholics were flooding the United States and would ultimately take it over and run it. Joe McCarthy was, of course, an Irish Catholic American and had nothing to do with it.

He is not alone in his fear that there is any danger of "dictatorship from the Left" because no Communist has ever been elected to Congress, a statement often made but equally often doubted by those who sometimes wonder at the tactics and antics of some members of that body.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wednesday, May 27, had been an important day on the calendar of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. He never dreamed how truly important it would be in a more personal sense.

It was to have been the cold war's day of crisis and showdown so all of them — including Gromyko — can fly here for Dulles' funeral. So even in death Dulles is having some effect on relations with the Soviet Union.

If Gromyko had stayed in Geneva, while the Western ministers flew here as a final tribute to Dulles, the U.S.S.R. in the world's eyes would have looked guilty of sullen bad taste.

This will give an idea of Dulles' efforts to avoid the May 27 crisis after Khrushchev's demand and warning on Nov. 27.

On Nov. 30 he flew to Augusta, Ga., to talk with President Eisenhower about it. On Dec. 4 he was in San Francisco making a foreign policy speech. He came back here the next day and went into Walter Reed Army Hospital to get a checkup on an intestinal inflammation. There was always the possibility he was having a recurrence of the intestinal cancer for which he had undergone surgery two years earlier.

On Dec. 12 he got up out of his hospital bed, visited Eisenhower at the White House and that same day took a plane to Paris for talks with the Western foreign ministers.

Then to Jamaica for a two weeks' vacation. He got a virus infection there, recovered, came back to work. On Feb. 3 he flew to Europe again for conferences with the Western leaders in London, Paris and Bonn.

In Paris, ironically, he took a peaceful solution to the Berlin dispute. Dulles helped shape those talks and plan them. They began three weeks ago. They have accomplished absolutely nothing except to get over the May 27 deadline without crisis.

They may go on for weeks. In the end there may be crisis. But it was only after the West had proposed these Geneva talks that Khrushchev backed off a bit and said he really didn't mean, back in November, to make May 27 a deadline.

But today the foreign ministers suspended their talks for two days so all of them — including Gromyko — can fly here for Dulles' funeral. So even in death Dulles is having some effect on relations with the Soviet Union.

Ohio Senate Meet Is Brief, Very Noisy

Mechem, in a press conference lighted by a cigarette lighter held by an obliging bystander, called the performance "disgraceful" and "rule by gavel."

Reporters stood by while Hoffman engaged in a heated exchange with the sergeant at arms who was attempting to eject him from the chamber. "I'd advise you not to try to throw me out," Hoffman asserted.

The sergeant at arms then turned to this reporter and invited him to leave, but he got the retort: "No thanks, I'm staying."

(Later, Bartunek apologized to reporters who were invited to leave.)

A few minutes later, reporters left the chamber voluntarily to quiz the governor on the situation. Halfway down the stairs to the governor's office, they were summoned back to the second floor by Majority Leader King for an interview in Minority Leader Mechem's office.

The two leaders sat down together. King said it had been reported to him that Mechem had said King had broken his word. Mechem immediately retorted he had said no such thing. The five newsmen in the room supported Mechem. King asserted:

"That's fine. My only purpose here is to get that point cleared up."

The reporters raced down the stairs to interview DiSalle.

Asked about the night's doings, former legislator DiSalle replied: "I've seen worse."

Asked his view of the abrupt proceedings, DiSalle replied:

"No one can ever condone a thing like that."

Asked what he meant, the governor replied:

"I refer to putting out the lights, but I also can't condone the partisan politics of Sens. Dendens and Hoffman with very important business like that pending. And I can't condone lobbyists standing in the back of the Senate chamber giving instructions."

DiSalle declined to identify the lobbyists to whom he referred, but he indicated the "instructions" were given to a Republican senator.

Asked if he believes lobbyists are controlling this session of the Legislature, DiSalle replied:

"The lobbyists have done very well in the last week."

His obvious reference was to the House defeat of a bill a week ago to change the formula on which utility rates are based. The measure was supported by the governor.

The long-delayed Senate session was the matter of all-consuming interest for both Senate and House members. The tax bill is the key to DiSalle's entire 360-million-dollar tax increase program.

The House, however, worked for several hours to clear its calendar.

The House passed and sent to the Senate bills to:

Permit county commissioners to build or lease juvenile detention homes.

Provide that the names of attorney general candidates follow those of lieutenant governor aspirants in Ohio's office-type election ballots.

Allow townships to contract between themselves for fire protection for longer than three years.

Authorize county commissioners to provide nursing care for permanently disabled residents.

Empower the welfare director to draft regulations for distribution of aid to needy children.

Some major legislation ran into trouble in the House.

The House defeated a proposed constitutional amendment to permit metropolitan federations, but a move to reconsider the vote paved the way for another test later. The proposal is similar to issue No. 1 on last November's ballot which was defeated.

Last year's proposal applied only to federations within counties, but the new resolution would permit one or more neighboring counties to join in federations to solve such mutual problems as sewer and utility services, garbage collection and police and fire protection. It would apply to possible federations within a dozen counties with cities of 50,000 or more population.

Two measures to establish statewide licensing, identification and regulation of boats were sent back to committee after long House debate. The measures would put Ohio law into conformity with federal regulations next April 1 and set license fees for all craft.

Freight Trips to Moon Predicted by Scientist

TOKYO (AP) — A U.S. Army scientist today predicted that manned observation stations on the moon will be supplied by freight-carrying rockets that drop their loads without landing and return to earth. Dr. Ernst Stuhlinger said the rockets would be powered from nuclear sources or from the sun and should be ferrying supplies by 1965 or 1970.

Sunday Use Of Parks Ruled Illegal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy gave an interim ruling today which said state parks and fairs that operate on Sundays are in violation of Ohio's ancient blue laws.

He handed Gov. Michael V. DiSalle the ruling at a press conference in which he also offered his "closest possible cooperation" in all fields of law enforcement.

McElroy said "It appears it will take legislative action to exempt parks and state and county fairs from the old blue laws.

State parks in operation Sundays apparently are in violation of the law, but DiSalle said he will take no action pending a detailed study and formal opinion from McElroy.

The situation came to a head as result of Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner's efforts to halt a furniture company's fair on the State Fairgrounds last Sunday.

DiSalle said he has talked with leaders of the Democratic-controlled Legislature concerning proposed laws that would modify the blue laws in some cases and in others remove them completely from the books.

The governor said he will urge the Legislature to take action as rapidly as possible to clear up the situation.

High Court Rules On Law Libraries

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Municipalities must share with county law libraries the fines and forfeitures to a total of $1,200 a year from Highway Patrol traffic cases prosecuted under state law.

Such payments, the Ohio Supreme Court held today, are in addition to a percentage of fines and forfeitures to pay the association half of the fees received from municipal court cases prosecuted under city ordinances.

The 6-0 decision affirmed an appellate court order obtained by the Akron Law Library Assn. against that city's finance director. The mandamus order compels the finance director to pay such fines and forfeitures to the association half of the fees received from municipal court cases. The court turns over 45 per cent of such fees to the finance director or city treasurer.

Van Camp, Measamer Win Honors at Flower Show

A gay whirl of pinwheels, a merry-go-round horse, bright balloons and a carousel of flowers greeted the many guests and participants at the "Spring Carnival" flower show staged by the Pickaway Garden Club at the Lutheran Parish House yesterday.

A stem of beautiful white iris was judged the top horticultural specimen in the show and won a silver serving tray for Mrs. George Van Camp of Oakwood Place.

Mrs. Schubert Measamer of Knollwood Village won the best of show award in the arrangement classes. Her composition featured a hand-made circus clown swinging from the side of a vase containing orange candlestick lilies and emerald palm fronds.

The judges praised the quality of the arrangements and specimen flowers, except for the rose section. Roses were badly harmed by the late frost which damaged the leaves and petals and stunted the stems, leaving a perfect rose, a rare thing this spring.

An educational display of 64 different wild flower species, prepared by Floyd Bartley, received special acclaim from the judges. Bartley gathered, pressed and mounted the specimens during the last several weeks. He then labeled them with botanical information and presented a rare and interesting exhibit.

Another rarity was the antique wooden merry-go-round horse which greeted the visitors. Belonging to the Don Woodward family for many years, it was restored and painted by Mrs. Robert Burton, decked with a saddle basket of red peonies and surrounded by balloons and pinwheels.

Assisting Mrs. Burton with the general staging were Mrs. Luther Bower, Mrs. Dudley Carpenter, and Mrs. Charles Thompson.

The tea committee, headed by Mrs. L. E. Foreman, served refreshments to the public from 3 to 5 p.m. in the afternoon and 7 to 9 p.m. in the evening. Tiny cakes in carousel colors were featured. The blue-and-white striped table cloth was centered by a moving carousel with a top of fresh flowers which formed a perfect color wheel.

Working Women Discussed At Circleville Forum

James B. Carr, D.E. McDonald and Sterling Poling were guest panel members for the program of Circleville Forum, at a luncheon meeting held Tuesday at Wardells. The panel, dealing with the subject of Circleville's working women, discussed the type of work being done in this area by women outside their homes and the opportunities available for those seeking full or part-time employment.

Carr, Supervisor of Employee and Community Relations at Circleville's General Electric Plant stressed that women are an essential part of the labor force all over our country because our male work force is not growing at a rate as great as our demands for things produced by labor. He also explained, using the local G.E. plant as an example, that there are many fields in which women are naturally more adept.

In discussing part-time work McDonald expressed the thought that in the retail field in Circleville, one of the greatest opportunities for women would be in doing book-keeping for small businesses, part of which might even be done at home. In offices, Poling explained, the training time would be as great for a part-time employee as one who works full time - that she would need to work regularly enough to justify the training given her and to be able to operate efficiently in the job for which she was employed. McDonald operates Mac's Tire and Appliance Store and Poling is associated with the Hummel and Plum Insurance Agency.

In answer to a question regarding summer work for students, both Poling and McDonald agreed that few offices or retail businesses have need for additional employees during the summer with the exception of those which have several employees and need someone to work during the vacations of regular employees.

In introducing the discussion, Mrs. Sterling Poling as moderator, listed as Circleville's largest employers of women the GE plant which currently employs 485 women, the Circleville schools employing 82½ women (one teacher teaches half days), Berger Hospital with 80 women employees, 65 per cent of whom are full time employees and General Telephone Company with 30 women employed. Mrs. Poling also explained that Winnor Canning Co. employs an average of 39 women during most of the five month canning season.

In response to a question, the panel members agreed that it would be virtually impossible to adopt working hours for mothers of school children to school hours.

Mrs. Creator Kraft, president, opened the meeting with the theme prayer. Members repeated James 5, verses 5-16 in unison.

Mrs. Floy Brobst was in charge of devotions and she used Rom. Chapter 8, verses 21 and 22 as a basis for her topic. She read "We Do Not Know How to Pray" and "Intercessory Prayer". The group then sang, "Praise Him, Praise Him" which was followed with a reading, "God Is Fair".

The class is planning a picnic in June.

Mrs. Larry Goodman has charge of the program as she discussed "Mothers of the Bible".

Miss Edwina Holderman closed the meeting with a prayer.

A dessert course was served by the hostess.

Immediately after the judging, a list of winners was released by Mrs. James Moffitt and Mrs. James Otto, co-chairmen of the show.

Complete results of the judging will be in tomorrow's paper.

Willing Workers To Improve Church

When the Willing Workers Class of Pontious EUB Church met recently at the home of Mr. Larry Goodman, Route 2, Amanda, members voted to buy a storm window and screen door for the Sunday School.

Mrs. Creator Kraft, president, opened the meeting with the theme prayer. Members repeated James 5, verses 5-16 in unison.

Mrs. Floy Brobst was in charge of devotions and she used Rom. Chapter 8, verses 21 and 22 as a basis for her topic. She read "We Do Not Know How to Pray" and "Intercessory Prayer". The group then sang, "Praise Him, Praise Him" which was followed with a reading, "God Is Fair".

Mrs. Larry Goodman has charge of the program as she discussed "Mothers of the Bible".

Miss Edwina Holderman closed the meeting with a prayer.

A dessert course was served by the hostess.

At the conclusion of the discussion, Carr won the approval of his audience with this quote "A woman must look like a girl, think like a man, act like a lady and work like a dog".

Mrs. Horace Luton presided during the business session at which it was decided to complete the final stages of the volunteer services survey which is being made by the group.

Mrs. Ed Grigg and Mrs. Richard E. Plum were guests for this meeting.

Mrs. Robert Anderson, newly elected president will assume her duties at the next meeting to be held in September along with Mrs. Poling, vice president; Mrs. Victor Rogers, recording secretary; Mrs. John Griffith, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Charles Sisco, treasurer.

Guild 38 of Berger Hospital met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Harold Griffith, 1300 Lewis Road. Members discussed program plans for the coming year.

A carry-in picnic is set for June 17 at the home of Mrs. Roland Reinhard, 1021 Lynwood Ave.

Refreshments were served by the hostess who was assisted by Mrs. James Parker.

OES Members Meet Tuesday Night

The business meeting of Circleville Chapter 90, Order of the Eastern Star, was conducted by the Worthy Matron Mrs. Donna Foreman when the chapter met for a regular meeting Tuesday night in the Masonic Temple.

An invitation to attend inspection was received from M. Z. Kreider Chapter 145 of Lancaster, to be held at 8 p. m. June 8th with Deputy Grand Matron Mrs. Bertha Huffman in charge of the inspection.

The local chapter has been invited to attend Friendship Night at Bainbridge on June 11th. The Worthy Matron asked that as many members attend as possible. After the meeting was adjourned, members held a social hour in the dining room with refreshments being served by Mrs. Garner Reichelderfer and committee. Favors were miniature flower boxes filled with artificial flowers.

The next regular meeting will be held June 9th in the Chapter Room.

Axle-Mile Tax Tightening Set by State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio is going to tighten administration of the axle-mile tax on big trucks.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said the tax has yielded about 40 million dollars less than was estimated during its five years of collection. DiSalle said he did not know whether laxity in administration was responsible.

Finance Director James Maloon recommended to DiSalle that:

All auditing procedures be put in writing.

No tax adjustment recommendation was carried out without a review.

Adjustments ordered re-worked by hearing boards should go through administrative channels. The field audit staff be increased from 39 to 40.

Persons who recommend large decreases in tax amounts should be consulted before approval.

DiSalle said the recommendations reflected the recent indictment of Thomas A. Greiner of Columbus, Greiner, former acting head of the Axe - Mile Tax Division, is accused of soliciting and taking bribes in connection with tax adjustments.

Paul Johnsons Go Patriotic With Magnificent Flowers

IRIS-PEONY BORDER — While the Paul Johnsons have flowers from spring to fall their borders are particularly beautiful at this season. The color harmony is white, pink and blue. (Staff Photo)

Come Fourth of July, this year, the Paul Johnsons home, 984 Woodland Drive, will be slightly reminiscent of the Barbara Fritchie house in Maryland.

The Old Glory will be flying from one of the dormer windows of this modern home which somehow contrives to look so quaint under the enormous sycamore tree.

And matching Old Glory as to color will be a planting of red and white petunias and blue ageratum.

In fact, Mrs. Johnson all but knocked herself out Thursday by planting 300 Commando and Popcorn petunias in the raised flower beds in front of the house.

AND MRS. JOHNSON, who is a loyal daughter of the American Revolution, has giant red and white zinnias planted along the low white fence where the young evergreens are growing. The varieties she has selected are Will Rodgers and Polar Bear. These replace the Red Emperor tulips which have now finished blooming.

The Johnsons do not have a flower garden in the strict sense of the word. Rather they use flowers to accent their landscape design, which, after all, is a flower's basic function. That is, unless you have gone over to the arrangers' camp and feel that you must plant a little of everything that a t bloom.

Mrs. Johnson is not too interested in arranging. But she's a flower show winner with 30 or more blue and red ribbons to her credit. These she has won on her specimens in the last four or five years.

On the other side of the low white fence where the steep slope to the back meadow begins, the Johnsons have their roses. These provide Mrs. Johnson with specimens which win ribbons too.

The slope has been terraced. And on the terrace are the flower borders. Right now the iris-peony border is in full bloom. The peonies are pink and white interspersed with pale blue iris. And a most effective border it is. The Johnsons like both peony and iris foliage so that later on when the bloom is gone the border provides a green accent.

Another border now completely filled with lemon lilies is also maintained on this narrow terrace. This border boasts a fine plant of dwarf clematis with blue flowers that contrast with the lilies. The clematis is not at all common.

MRS. JOHNSON says that it was one of Bob Brehmer's discards. When the Johnsons lived on Northridge Road Brehmers provided them with all sorts of nice bulbs which were not up to standard for greenhouse use. Bob Brehmer just dropped the things over the fence and the Johnsons appreciated the windfall.

The Paul Johnson place exemplifies the artistry of repetition. Instead of a vast collection of different flowers and plants the Johnsons use many of the same flowers. And with great effectiveness! Mrs. Johnson groups one color together instead of polka dotting the colors.

THE PAUL JOHNSON place has a small frontage, a deep slope and a broad meadow. It is in this meadow that the blooded mare does her grazing. The Johnson's excellent vegetable garden is here too. And while they do their gardening together the meadow seems to be Paul Johnson's special responsibility. He was mowing the grass Friday from a comfortable seat on his "rider" mower.

If you're a gardener hopper and miss the Johnson's peony display don't forget about the annuals which provide bloom later in the summer. White the Johnsons are not just plant collectors they do have flowers all the time and flowers most effectively displayed.

PRIZE WINNER — This Le Cyne peony is frequently a winner at flower shows. Le Cyne is purest white. It has a rating of 9.9 which is about as high as a peony can be rated. (Staff Photo)

Still Time To Plant Lawn

Editors note: It's a risk but no less an authority than "Lawn Care" Magazine says it's still possible to plant a lawn.

Early spring or fall are the best times for planting new lawns.

However, you can plant one now, successfully, provided you can provide adequate moisture later on when the young grass appears.

Midday sun or drying winds are what you are up against — and frequent watering is the answer.

Since a lawn is intended to give you pleasure for a long, long time,

New Strain Of Lavender Winter-Proof!

Many a good gardener has had the painful experience of losing a cherished lavender plant during a hard winter. Inexperienced gardeners know well their lack of green-thumb-know-how when a fragrant lavender planting fails to live for a second season.

As a matter of fact few strains are hardy enough to winter over in a northern climate.

But the Jackson and Perkins Co. has developed a hardy strain which they are offering to the public. It is lavender Hidcote Blue and has the rich captivating fragrance of old-fashioned lavender.

Lavender is loved mostly for its quaintness and its fragrance. Its foliage is silvery gray. It has a spike bloom. And spiked flowers are always helpful in adding accent and contrast to the border. Its spikes, of course, are a pleasing shade of lavender.

When planted in groups along a walk its flowers are harmonious with all other colors and emit a fragrance that is truly delightful. Its dried leaves make sachets to place among linens.

Yes, a winter-hardy lavender is good news for gardeners.

Don't Believe Old Tales

Even a Little Water Is Good

Out at the agricultural research station at Fort Collins in Colo., they recently concluded a five-year study of the most efficient way to water grass. From April through October they sprinkled test lawns at varying intervals, using varying quantities of water.

What they found out is what other researchers have been discovering elsewhere; that most of the widely held beliefs about watering are nothing but old wives' tales.

For instance, nearly everyone will tell you to wait until a lawn is dry and then soak it thoroughly. Light watering, they say, is worse than none. Just the opposite says research. Light watering, done frequently, is by far the best.

But if you water lightly, won't all the roots be drawn to the surface? Not at all says research. Contrary to popular belief, roots do not "reach" for water. And no matter how heavily or lightly you water, a majority of the roots will be distributed throughout the first six inches of soil.

GRASS itself is 70-75 per cent water. This water is essential for its life and growth and as used up, in the making of chlorophyll for instance, it must be replaced. If soil dries as little as a half inch, grass may be under severe drought straits.

Right there is the clue to best watering practice. The ideal arrangement would be to start watering early in the season and to water every day or so whenever not raining.

That, of course, is why automatic underground irrigation systems are growing fast in popularity. They make it possible to water a lawn quickly, at any hour of the day or night, with the least waste of water.

Even if you can't water that often, do the best you can. Contrary to the old wives tales, even a little water will do good.

One thing everyone can do is to feed the grass regularly. It needs no watering-in. Well fed grass is 60-70 per cent more efficient in using whatever water it does get.

When grass is subject to prolonged drought, it will eventually turn brown.

But if you feed regularly before the drought your grass will stay greener longer.

Philadelphia To Host ARS Meeting

Let a rose fancier attend just one national rose convention and it's the beginning of a life long habit. And no wonder! All the big rose people from coast to coast attend to discuss their problems and attend to discuss their problems and

The convention, this year, will be held June 11, 12 and 13 in Philadelphia, Pa., with headquarters at the Sheraton Hotel.

On the speaker's list are such notables as Eugene Boerner, known to rosarians as "Papa Floribunda"; Dr. Cynthia Wescott, the plant doctor, author of numerous books on insects, plant diseases and roses; Dr. George E. Jorgenson, Clairmont, Iowa, who is an authority on foliage feeding; George M. Hart, Conard-Pyle Co.; Gladys Fisher (creator of Sterling Silver, the lavender rose) and Raymond Morris, a Philadelphian who will demonstrate arrangements.

There will be a pre-convention tour, a convention tour, and a post-convention tour of rose gardens. The National Rose Show will be held in connection with the convention and an advanced course for accredited rose show apprentice judges will be offered.

The convention will celebrate the 60th birthday of the ARS.

Dr. Robert M. Zollinger, Columbus member of the Columbus Rose Society to which several local men belong will be master of ceremonies at the "Getting to Know You" dinner which will start off the festivities.

Garden Gossip

Ed Ingram, Stringtown, loves to talk iris. And he loves garden visitors. If you're in the Stringtown vicinity stop by for a chat. Here's a guy who knows his iris. He moved here from Lancaster last February so his iris planting is not as full of bloom as it will be next year. But you'll have yourself a time talking to this expert.

Miss Lida Fry, S. Court St. says her peonies and iris are at their peak of bloom now. But she's not resting on her laurels. She's busy planting excess tulip bulbs in the garden that used to be her chicken yard.

Mrs. Ella Hornbeck's peonies won't make it for Decoration Day. They were in full bloom Friday. Actually last week was peony week for almost everybody.

Miss Ruth Montelius, Route 1, Circleville, is starting out on a new horticultural adventure. She's starting a rose garden. She has 16 new roses that are coming along fine. She's carefully following the rules on rose culture.

Mrs. C. D. Rector, Sunshine St., had good news to tell. She only lost a few roses. Sunshine St. is the rose street. Everybody along the street seemed to specialize in roses and last year when the climbers and tree roses and hybrid teas in all the yards were in bloom it was a very lovely sight. I understand. Just a happen so!

A lot of things can happen in a year. Last spring Dr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Shane, Northridge Road, had wisteria that formed a huge canopy over the driveway. Gee, what a sight! And now what's happened. Mrs. Shane says one vine seems to have died completely the other had one lone wisteria bloom on it.

NAT LEFKO, Northridge Road, says she likes bright-colored roses. No lavenders for him. But he admitted that Peace was one of his favorites. Peace is certainly a rose with subtle coloring.

When we talked to Mrs. James Huffines, the youngest of the three Huffines boys, wanted a background for a picture of his 4-H steer he picked the part of the house where the castor beans were growing.

And when Douglas Huffines, Kingston insurance man, why in the world he planted castor beans in front of the window he had a quick comeback—"So Doc Goeller couldn't see in". The Goellers are the Huffines' neighbors and the castor bean planting was the one thing that outsize anything the doctor grew last year.

Yes, castor beans are poison, but by the time the bean clusters have developed it takes an extension ladder to reach them.

Judge judges will be offered.

The convention will celebrate the 60th birthday of the ARS.

Dr. Robert M. Zollinger, Columbus member of the Columbus Rose Society to which several local men belong will be master of ceremonies at the "Getting to Know You" dinner which will start off the festivities.

FILMY PLASTIC BAGS - A WARNING

Q. What makes thin plastic, such as that used for dry cleaning bags, stick to the skin?

A. The plastic becomes electrified and is attracted to objects which have an opposite charge just as steel is attracted to a magnet. This can be very dangerous. At least four children have suffocated in the filmy dry cleaning bags. Medical alerts are being issued on the containers.

Static electricity in the bags cause them to cling to the victim's face and cut off breathing. Of the four known victims, three were 2 years old and the other 4. Medical societies and health departments are notifying people of the danger. Small children should not be allowed to play with the plastic bags.

Q. What causes growing pains in children? Does the condition indicate rheumatic fever?

A. In most cases the cause of pain in children's legs occurs at night. Rheumatic fever is rarely the cause. There seems to be no reason to call them "growing pains" except that they occur during childhood.

Q. You sometimes hear of people who have swallowed a variety of objects such as spoons, buttons, etc. Are there any authentic reports of such cases?

A. Deliberate swallowing of foreign bodies is not so rare among mentally ill persons. A New York doctor recently operated on a 43-year-old woman and removed 393 objects from the stomach. Their combined weight was three pounds, seven ounces.

They included 78 spoon handles, several bolts and many nuts, screws, nails, hairpins, a religious medal with chain, several beads, earrings, pins, pieces of glass and gravel.

Q. What is vitamin F? — Mrs. C.

A. "Vitamin F" is a term formerly used for certain essential fatty acids. It is no longer employed in scientific writings.

Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N.Y. 10, N.Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

Iris Show Scheduled At Kingwood

Regional Iris Show sponsored by the Central Ohio Iris Society, hosts to Region Six, American Iris Society, will be staged at Kingwood Center, Mansfield, Saturday and Sunday. The show is open free to the public on Saturday from 2-9 p.m., and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

All iris growers, whether amateur or professional, are invited to enter specimen blooms and arrangements. Members of the Central Ohio Iris Society will be on hand to assist those who have never before entered a flower show. An added feature to the show is a division open to anyone who has not won a ribbon in an iris show.

Entries for the Iris Show will be accepted in the Exhibit Hall on Friday, from 7-9 p.m. and Saturday from 7-11 a.m. Exhibitors may make more than one entry in any one class provided each entry is of a different variety.

All specimens must have been grown by the exhibitor. Only one person may enter specimen blooms in any one class from any one garden. Although other flowers and foliage may be used, iris must be the predominating material in all arrangements.

SPECIAL RIBBONS, an American Iris Society Bronze Medal and a Kingwood Center Bowl will be awarded to the winners. Show schedules are available by writing Kingwood Center, Mansfield, Ohio.

Iris enthusiasts may also register for the meetings of the Region Six Iris Show. Registration will be held in Kingwood Hall on Friday, from 3-5 p.m. and 7-8 p.m., and on Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dr. Adolph Waller from the Botany Department of Ohio State University will speak on "Iris Species for your Garden" at the afternoon meeting.

The banquet speaker will be Robert S. Carney, Chairman of the Membership Committee, American Iris Society, who will talk on "Iris — Today and Tomorrow."

In addition, tours of local iris gardens and a special tour of prominent iris gardens in North Central Ohio will be on the program of events. Kingwood's Iris Garden of 540 varieties is expected to be at its peak for the weekend's activities.

The Rajasthan Canal, 425 miles long, will irrigate 1,684,000 acres in India when completed. Total cost of the canal and its 2,000 miles of distributaries will be 315 million dollars.

Ashville News Report

By Mrs. Art Deal Jr.

The 10th annual Ashville Alumni Assn. Banquet was held Saturday evening in the school auditorium with over 200 guests and alumni attending.

A steak dinner was prepared by the mothers of the Sophomore Class and served by the class members. The tables were decorated with orange and black streamers with vases of spring flowers.

Following the dinner a musical concert was presented by the combined choral group of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co.

They presented selections from their spring concert and musical review.

HERB SEYMOUR, president, welcomed the alumni and told of many of his school day memories. C. E. Mahaffey, principal, presented the 1959 graduating class to the alumni. Doran Toplosky, vice president, welcomed the seniors to the alumni association and Linda Cummins responded for her senior class. Mr. and Mrs. George D. McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. Mahaffey, Mr. and Mrs. Benis Lutz and Miss Nester Oesterle were members of the faculty present.

A short business meeting was held with the following officers elected for 1960: Wade Canter, president; William Fortner, vice president; Carol Sherman, Nine Rose Purcell and Georgia Mallory, secretaries, and Helen Cummings, treasurer.

Honored guests for the evening were the classes of 1909 and 1934. Homer Reber, the only member attending from the 50-year alumni represented in behalf of his class.

Attending from the 25-year class were Mary Ann Stevenson Bresler, Neva Lee Arthur Chalfin, Jane Hudson Schleppi, Georgia Bowers Dore, Everett Peters, Richard Welsh, William Fortner, and Howard Wellington. Mrs. Dore responded for her class. Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Peters was the only member of the 1905 class present. Introduced was Orville Mithoff, who came all the way from Costa Mesa, Calif., to attend the banquet.

A picture of the 1897 graduating class, second class to graduate from Ashville, was brought by Mrs. Ruby Payne Marquette, Columbus.

MRS. ROLLAND FEATHERINGHAM led the group in group singing. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Martin Cromley. The door prize was won by Miss Velma Alice Kuhn, one of the graduating seniors.

The rest of the evening was spent in visiting and dancing to the music of Richard Welch's orchestra. Welch was a member of the 25-year alumni class.

This year's officers who were in charge of the banquet were Seymour, president; Toplosky, vice president; Mrs. Virginia Baum Wilson, Betty Badger Conell and Ellen Johnson Bowers, secretaries and Jim Irwin, treasurer.

80 Highway Jobs Listed In Bidding

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Highway Department invited bids yesterday on 80 projects in 52 counties. Sixty-eight projects involve maintenance and resurfacing.

However, the largest of the 12 construction projects, which would just about triple the width of Ohio 58 in Lorain County, was taken off the list at the last moment because of failure to obtain agreement with the New York Central Railroad on a grade separation. Other construction projects:

Addition of two lanes to U.S. 33 for a three-mile stretch south of Lancaster in Fairfield County. Apparent low bid: $563,689 by C. F. Repligie of Circleville. State estimate: $633,000.

Straightening out three curves on four sections of Ohio 664 southwest of Logan in Hocking County. Apparent low bid: $348,659 by Engle Construction Co. of McArthur. State estimate: $404,700.

Replacing the bridge that carries Ohio 108 over Canton Ditch in Putnam County. Apparent low bid: $52,373 by Shelly & Sands of Thorntown. State estimate: $58,600.

Replacing the bridge that carries Ohio 138 over Deer Creek south of Williamsport in Pickaway County. Apparent low bid: $24,727 by Shelly & Sands of Thorntown. State estimate: $22,600.

Ohio Idle Pay Claims Still Showing Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The decrease in both new and continuing claims for unemployment compensation were reflected today in reports for the week ended May 23.

The bureau of unemployment compensation said new claims for the week dropped from 7,554 to 7,378, and continuing claims from $4,966 to $4,391.

DiSalle Readies Drive on Vice

Ohio Attorney General May Be Prosecutor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state is going to move in to clean up gambling and vice where local officials fail to act.

This was announced by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy today. They disclosed the plans for the crackdown in a press conference in the governor's office.

Major steps being planned:

1. Employing one or more investigating officers to work under the attorney general.

2. Invoking the seldom, if ever, used laws that permit the attorney general to step into counties and prosecute on the same basis as a prosecuting attorney. This includes calling for a grand jury investigation.

"Both the governor and I are held responsible by the public for the quality of law enforcement," McElroy said, "yet both the governor and the attorney general have powers limited by the Ohio Constitution and the statutes of the Ohio Legislature . . . The governor's power to authorize convening of special grand juries by the attorney general makes the attorney general special prosecutor for aggravated local situations but the attorney general remains essentially a local prosecutor on the local level for that single situation."

Johnny Myers is a patient at University Hospital, Columbus. He is in Room 1088.

He added:

"Much crime, particularly that emanating from activities of racketeers, is planned and executed on a multiple-county basis, a fact which renders the local level of enforcement insufficient. Enforcement, which includes skilled investigation by trained men, must apparently be on the same multi-county basis to be sufficient."

McElroy said he welcomed the opportunity to work with the governor "to evolve a proper system under amplified or new laws, new uses of present powers of the governor's office, or of the attorney general's office, and new public attitudes."

Godfrey made his plea in a letter to Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.), chairman of a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

Ohio Non-Metallic Minings Run Very High in Value

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Non-metallic minerals extracted annually from Ohio's soil exceed in value all the gold, silver and other precious metals mined throughout the country.

And in the last 150 years Ohio has produced non-metallic minerals of greater value than all the gold, etc., the country has mined.

So says Ralph J. Bernhagen, chief of the Ohio Division of Geological Survey, in a new publication entitled "A Century and a Half of Ohio's Minerals."

Bernhagen estimates that if all the minerals extracted in Ohio since 1800 were transported in conventional railroad cars at one time, they would require a train 820,000 miles long—or three times the distance from the earth to the moon.

The state, since production figures are available, has given up 1,991,000,000 tons of coal, 649,795,000 barrels of oil, three trillion cubic feet of natural gas, 906 million tons of limestone and dolomite, 93 million tons of sandstone, 179 million tons of clay, 92 million tons of salt, and 578 million tons of sand and gravel, the survey shows.

Godfrey Asks Big Drive on Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur Godfrey, who recently underwent surgery for lung cancer, asked today for a stepped-up national program of cancer research.

"Surely, a crash program of cancer research is as important today to America as similar projects now being pursued by nuclear fission, missiles and space entertainers," the television and radio entertainer said.

Godfrey, in a request prepared for Congress, made it clear that "I ask this in the interests of millions of our fellow Americans, not for myself."

Godfrey made his plea in a letter to Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.), chairman of a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

The oil and gas figures date back to only 1885, although both were discovered about 1814, and Findlay homes were being heated with gas as early as 1837.

Waxing eloquent about the state's natural resources, Bernhagen said:

Liquor Agency Employee List In for Shuffle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An April State Civil Service examination may cause quite a shuffle in Enforcement Division personnel in the Department of Liquor Control.

If examination results are used as the basis of filling investigator positions, some 31 newcomers would join the division while 23 provisional employees would be dropped.

Enforcement Chief Ivan Smith plans to increase the division from 82 to 90 men. Forty of the present 82 are on provisional appointments.

Only 17 of the 40 provisionals rank among the top group of the eligibility list following the Civil Service tests.

Smith said he has not received the official list from the Civil Service Commission and could make no comment on whom he may appoint until he has studied results of the examination.

The commission reported, however, that Belford T. Hemsley of Ironon, an employee of the Liquor Department's Permit Division, scored highest of 82 applicants for Investigator III posts. He had 113.14.

Frank M. Acton Jr. of Lancaster, a provisional employee, made the highest grade of 302 applying for Investigator II posts, 114.74.

More than 10 times as much recoverable coal, or almost 20 billion tons, still lies underground in Ohio as has been mined, or lost in mining, since 1800."

On the oil-gas situation, he said: "Ohio, with its relatively shallow production, favorable drilling regulations, a ready market and potential off-shore drilling in Lake Erie, beckons to oil men as a promising area for exploration."

The valve at Dow Lake, on U.S. 50 in Athens County, has been closed and water from Stroud's Run is filling the 160-acre, $50,000 lake. A fish-stocking program is in progress. The Division of Wildlife dumped 100,000 largemouth bass fry, 1,000 channel catfish over 14 inches long, 800 bluegills five inches long, 5,000 adult minnows and an undetermined number of muskellunge fry into the waters.

Looking for a muskie? You might try the 2,270-acre Piedmont Reservoir in Belmont County of the 1,000-acre Leesville Reservoir in Carroll County. A two-day test-netting project at Piedmont turned up 196 muskies, the largest a 27-pounder 44 inches long. At Leesville a two-day netting produced 28, the largest a 20-pound 40-inch.

They were first stocked in 1953, and the last stocking was in 1957.

Howard Hammond of Canton caught three muskies in a single day at Piedmont recently. The big one was 36 inches long and weighed 12½ pounds.

Life guards go on duty at 37 Ohio state parks Saturday as the busy vacation season gets underway.

V. W. Flickinger, chief of the Division of Parks, said today:

Despite the fact bathing areas are only a three-month attraction, nearly two million park visitors were swimmers last year. Total attendance was about 14 million."

BURIED MORE THAN AN HOUR—Rescue workers pull John Wyke (upper) and Jack Lawson (lower) from the trench in which they were buried under tons of clay, sand and cinders when a Detroit sewer excavation caved in. They were rushed unconscious to a hospital. Both were expected to live.

Idaho Sterilizing Mental Patients

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Idaho is reviving a program which permits the state to sterilize certain mental patients.

State law permits a sterilization operation to be performed with consent of the patient or without his consent if officials obtain a court order.

Dr. Terrell O. Carver, state health administrator, said the state's mental institutions would submit names of candidates for the operation to the State Board of Health, which would hold hearings and review each case.

And that said accounts will be for hearing before this Probate Court on Monday, June 8th, 1959 at 9 o'clock a.m. Exceptions to said accounts, if any, must be filed herein on or before June 1st, 1959.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Probate Court this 6th day of May, 1959.

Well, you can put yourself behind the wheel of a '59 Rocket Engine Oldsmobile—at less cost than you'd probably guess! (Surveys show that many people think an Olds costs more than it actually does.)

Your local Oldsmobile quality dealer can tell you exactly how easy it will be for you to make your move. And he's looking for a great many trade-ins to take care of used car buyers headed his way this Spring. That makes right now the right time to trade your present car in for a '59 Oldsmobile!

Take a demonstration drive in a '59 Rocket . . . then ask yourself, wouldn't you rather drive a new Oldsmobile . . . especially now that Spring is here!

were specimens of yeast, corn, mustard seed, fruit fly larvae and human blood.

The eggs and sperm of several sea urchins were included in the experiment to evaluate the effects of acceleration, deceleration, radiation and weightlessness on the egg fertilization process. A similar test was conducted with a mold spore.

Dr. Richard O. Moore, a director of biochemical research at Ohio State University, developed a chemical inhibitor which halts the digestive process long enough for the insulin to pass into the blood stream without breaking down. The insulin reduces excessive blood sugar.

The box was identical to that in which the monkey Gordo rode on its ill-fated trip last December. The compartment measured 10 inches in length, 13 1/4 inches in width and was 4 1/4 inches deep at the end and 7 inches deep at the other.

Baker wore a plastic helmet over a chamois cap. She and her helmet were strapped to a rubber bed.

Thermometers were inserted under her armpits to register body temperatures. A microphone was in a foam-rubber pad on her chest to detect heartbeats. Another instrument recorded her breathing.

Other devices checked blood pressure, pulse rate, and temperature and pressure in the chamber.

Both monkeys were strapped face down in their cylinders at the start of the flight, with their knees drawn up. This position provides the best resistance to gravity strains at the moment of launching. On re-entry, they would be face up as a result of the change in the nose cone's position.

OSU Chemist Finds Way To Aid Diabetics

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio State University biochemist has come up with a chemical discovery that may pave the way for diabetics to take insulin in capsule form.

Currently, insulin has to be injected into the muscles or blood stream. When taken by mouth, the insulin, a kind of protein, breaks down in the small intestine before it reaches the blood stream. Once broken down, insulin molecules are ineffective.

Dr. Richard O. Moore, a director of biochemical research at Ohio State University, developed a chemical inhibitor which halts the digestive process long enough for the insulin to pass into the blood stream without breaking down. The insulin reduces excessive blood sugar.

Frisco Bans Beer Sales in Parks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Board of Supervisors hunted through the fine print in a hurry Tuesday and struck the word "beer" out of a catering contract.

Marguerite Pratt, a citizen, pointed out the board was about to permit the sale of beer in four city parks patronized almost exclusively by teen-agers. But Rose Schuman, who is to manage the four concessions, said it wouldn't have made any difference.

"I have no license to sell beer," she said, "and I wouldn't sell it on a bet."

Strike Brings Cut In Use of Rubber

CLEVELAND (AP) — A U. S. District Court jury has convicted James F. Swartz, 34, of Akron, of three bank robberies in which a total of $65,627 was taken.

Sentence was deferred by Judge James C. Connell pending a probation report.

Swartz faces a maximum penalty of 75 years in prison and a fine of $30,000.

Robberies for which he was tried were at the South Akron Plaza branch of the Evans Savings Assn., where $30,646 was taken March 8, 1957; The Evans branch at Fairlawn Plaza in Akron, where $8,389 was taken Nov. 21, 1957, and the Towne Plaza branch of the State Bank Co. of Massillon, where $26,592 was stolen Sept. 18, 1958.

The French first settled in what is now the state of Arkansas in 1686.

Robin Roberts Takes Lumps From Redlegs

Comeback Kid Gets 4th Loss after His Opening Day Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After the opening game this looked like it might be the year Robin Roberts completed his comeback, but now it's already a long, long season for Philadelphia's right-handed veteran.

Roberts was The Associated Press comeback-of-the-year choice in the National League last season when he won 17 games for the last place Phillies. When he beat Cincinnati's Don Newcombe 2-1 opening day after a five-inning no-hitter, there were thoughts of the old Roberts, who had been a 20-game winner for six consecutive seasons before becoming the NL's biggest loser in 1956 and 1957.

Now he's 2-4, clobbered once more by the home run ball as he lost his third in a row Wednesday night at Cincinnati 10-4. The club he had held hitless for five innings on opening day chased him within four innings with eight hits, three of them homers, and six runs.

That victory hoisted the Reds into a fifth-place tie with the Chicago Cubs, beaten 4-1 at Los Angeles. First place Milwaukee retained a three-game lead by beating Pittsburgh 4-3 after San Francisco's second place Giants peppered St. Louis 9-4 in an afternoon game.

If the way Cleveland has managed to hold the American League lead is a surprise, imagine where the Indians might be if they could shake loose from Chicago's White Sox, the club they have a tough time beating, and Early Wynn, the guy they can't beat at all.

Half of Cleveland's 14 defeats through the first quarter of the schedule have been from the second place White Sox. And three of those have been nailed by Wynn, who has won seven in a row from the Indians since they traded him away a year and a half ago.

Cleveland's just a game in front after Wynn (7-3) and the White Sox went to work again Wednesday for a 5-1 victory over the Indians.

Baltimore, the only other club with an edge (3-2) over Cleveland this year, missed a chance to close in when Washington's Camilo Pascual beat the third place Orioles 6-0 Wednesday night with a two-hitter.

Last place New York squeezed past Boston 3-2 in the other AL game. Detroit was rained out at Kansas City.

Beyond a Boy's Understanding

DEAR ABBY: My Sunday School teacher says that God is everywhere. Please put this letter in the paper and maybe he will see it.

Dear God: Why did you let my brother die? When he was hit by the car my mother prayed to you to let him live but you wouldn't.

Commissioners Approve Bills

The Pickaway County Commissioners approved bills and claims against the county amounting to $6,044.67 Monday for the week ending May 23.

The Commissioners also approved the transfer of $1,502 from the courthouse and jail new equipment fund and $318 from the courthouse and jail furniture, fixtures and office equipment fund into the Sheriff's compensation of employees.

This transfer was necessitated by the employment of an additional night jailer for the County Jail. His hours will be from midnight until 8 a.m., giving the jail 24-hour protection.

Thompson Art Wins Prize at Scout Exhibit

Cynthia Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson, 122 Collins Court, Girl Scout Troop 796, was a first prize winner in a recent Girl Scout Art Exhibit sponsored by the Ohio Trefoil Girl Scout Council as a part of a national art contest held by the Girl Scouts of America.

The contest, held throughout Central Ohio, was narrowed down to 40 entries in the finals. Eight were given first prize ribbons and will be sent to the International Girl Scout Roundup to be held in Denver, Colo., July 3-12.

The subject given the girls was "Picture Your Home Frontier" and was to be of things or places of interest, historical or present in the girl's own community which were typical of her part of the country.

Cynthia's prize winning water color was entitled "Circleville Pumpkin Show" and showed the big pumpkin and gourd display held each year on W. Main St.

OTHER winning entries from this area were as follows: "Farmers on Saturday Night", by Cynthia Thompson, second prize; "My Own Back Yard", by Pat Schroeder, honorable mention; "Methodist Church", by Nancy Swarner, Charles Rhodes and Karen Lane;

"Pumpkin Show Parade", by Jenny Thompson, honorable mention; "Old Ohio Canal", by Cynthia Thompson, honorable mention;

"Woman's Watch Found

A woman's wrist watch was found on S. Court St. across from the Pickaway County Courthouse Monday.

Person or persons identifying the watch may claim it at the office of The Circleville Herald, 210 N. Court St.
